Evidence of Excellence: A Selection of Plus Ultra/Vltra Newsletter (PVN) Editorials or Related

Plus Ultra in Review - 1986. Last year was the year of changes for Plus Ultra. We went from an 8-page newsletter, accented with sketches, to 12 pages sprinkled with appropriate photographs. Our format was slightly formalized without giving up our “home grown” flavor. –Ernie Richards, Vol. 5, No. 1 PVN

Spanish Colonial Coins – Concluded. What started out to be a few notes and sketches about the coins being recovered from the 1715 Plate Fleet in Florida turned into 24 consecutive articles over the last six years! You readers understand that we relayed to you what we learned about cobs and round coins of the New World mints as we learned it. –Ernie Richards, Vol. 7, No. 1 PVN

Spanish Colonial Coinage. It is always exciting news to researchers when “new” information is found which alters long-standing truisms and theories – even though it means a re-write of “the book” ...or at least a chapter. –Ernie Richards, Vol. 7, No. 4 PVN

Spanish Colonial Coinage. Florida’s Bureau of Archaeological Research is a contributor to the efforts of this newsletter for this issue. Because this emanates from the camp of treasure divers, we are affectionately known in Tallahassee as the “Subversive Press.” Despite our comical nickname, we believe that our purpose and efforts...have the respect of the archaeologists, conservators, and management at the Bureau. –Ernie Richards, Vol. 8, No. 1 PVN

‘footNOTES. Some of the following museums and archival centers have been helpful to us while researching ships, shipwrecks, and the people who rode upon them...sometimes to the bottom. ...We wish to share some of these resources with our readers. ...This list is just a beginning...
–Robert/Bob “Frogfoot” Weller, Vol. 9, No. 3 PVN

Found: More Collectible 1977 Auction Catalogs. Florida Treasure Brokers, ever on the lookout for collectible and educational material for readers of Plus Ultra Newsletter, has secured another small handful of the item that was so “hot” last February! –Ernie Richards & Bob Weller, Vol. 9, No. 4 PVN

Memorium: Fay Field, 1920 – 1922. Fay Field linked up with Mel Fisher out in California during the late 1950s. He belonged to Fisher’s dive club, the Treasure Hunters Association, which operated out of “Mel’s Aqua Shop” in Redondo Beach. Fay was already an electronics “wizard,” having worked for the U.S. Army helping develop the secret W.W. II radar... As W.W.II technology gave way to modern physics and electronics, Fay was soon designing a more sensitive, sturdy, and compact type of magnetometer... Continually improving his circuitry and its packaging, Fay was ready to leave California for the underwater gold fields of Florida when Mel asked him to in 1963. For the next ten years, Fay would “find” sunken galleons and then help Fisher recovery their riches, mostly on the east coast of Florida. ...After six accomplished years (1972-1978) with [Ed] Link, Fay returned to his former passion, treasure hunting, and rejoined the Fisher operation... When the Fisher crew discovered Atocha’s “mother lode” in 1985, Fay was a member of the victorious team.

...On August 26th of last year, we lost one of the great contributors to the technology of shipwreck salvage. ...Fay, from the diving community: “You will be missed...but not forgotten. Good Hunting, Friend!”
–Ernie Richards, Vol. 11, No. 1 PVN

Documania! The Years from 1950 through 1999 should probably go down in history as the Second Age of Discovery --or, maybe, the Treasure Years! The finding of sunken treasure in modern times really got a shot in the arm in the 1950s with the location of the 1715 [and 1733] Plate Fleet[s] off Florida’s shores, and we feel pretty certain that we will be legislated out of the water by state and federal constraints before the turn of the century (only seven years away). In the meantime, we are enjoying a real resurgence of popular interest in the subject of shipwrecks and their numismatic contents. The grass roots are thirsty...for information and documentation. As a result of this, our Newsletter subscriptions are up, treasures are being sold at auction, and books—documenting the “Treasure Years”—are being published.

—Ernie Richards, Vol. 11, No. 2 PVN

A Close Encounter of the Shark Kind. “That’s the first time I have ever felt threatened by a shark!” John Brandon stood on the diving platform of the salvage boat Endeavor and pushed the face mask up on his forehead. “That’s enough diving for today. It’s lunch time...for me, and thankfully not for sharks.” ...But John was right back on the reef the day after, and, before he headed back to Fort Pierce for supplies and a little relaxation, he found the rest of the astrolabe! —Bob “Frogfoot” Weller, Vol. 11, No. 2 PVN

Crossed Anchors Salvage Hits the Big One! After nearly eleven years of reporting the great underwater finds of other salvagers, it gives us immense pleasure to announce—from our own camp—the recovery of a fabulous treasure. What has to be the discovery of a decade on Florida’s east coast is an exquisite ensemble of diamond-studded gold jewelry which may prove to be linked to the Queen of Spain herself.

—Ernie Richards, Vol. 11, No. 3 PVN

Memorium: Robert/Bob Johnson, Real Eight Company Member, died 26 April, 2005. “A partner and friend remembered. Bob Johnson passed away last week. Slowly but surely the members of the Real Eight Co. are leaving us. First Kip [Wagner], then Harry Cannon, and now Bob. Bob was the captain of all of the company’s vessels, and he ran a tight ship... —Lou Ullian [Real Eight Company member].”

—Bob Johnson, and all the other partners in Real 8 Co., showed those of us who followed...the way to remain gentlemen in the midst of “treasure fever”! —Ernie Richards, Vol. 23, No. 2 PVN

A Starter Library of Spanish Shipwrecks in Florida & How to Find Them! How did Successful Treasure Divers like Bob “Frogfoot” and Margaret “Lady Gold-Diver” Weller find $1 Million in Spanish Treasures? They’d done their Homework! In these three books, You will discover the Techniques and Actual Locations they used... —Ernie Richards, Vol. 23, No. 2 PVN

Frogfoot’s Seminars...Continued. The decision was several months in coming, but Margaret Weller courageously opted to carry on with Bob Weller’s legacy and host “Frogfoot”’s Salvaging Spanish Sunken Treasure series of summer seminars... —Ernie Richards, Vol. 27, No. 3 PVN

Plvs Ultra Newsletter Closing Down! This is NOT a for-profit organization. It never was! All I asked was that the little “newsletter” support itself. Well, it no longer does...hasn’t since 2010. Not that it’s putting me in the hole; there was a little surplus kept purposely in the kitty. My time and expenses were not factored into the cost of operation, except in rare cases, so you might say this was a labor of love. It was also the same for “Frogfoot” and most of our guest authors...[who provided photos, maps, charts, diagrams, etc.]

But, mostly, I credit (or blame) the fact that every “living” thing has an expiration date stamped on it—PVN being no exception—for retiring this publication. ...Since the life of this newsletter is closely tied to mine, it has been “slowing down” as I have, and the creativity which I had hopefully breathed into it is also waning. So, faithful friends, your editor is waving the white flag... It has been a privilege to have known all of you and to have served as a voice of our wreck diving and cob collecting avocations.” —Ernie, Vol. 34, N. 4 PVN.

In Memorium: Captain Ted Miguel (1990)

While the Plus Ultra newsletters contain many remembrances of deceased divers and support, some were not submitted, or occurred prior to the PVN years (1983-2016). One in particular, Captain Ted Miguel, stands out to this writer as most notable. He is remembered by Captain Syd Jones in his published memoir, Sweat of the Sun, Tears of the Moon – A True Story, a book dedicated to Capt. Miguel.

The following excerpts from the book provide a brief personal view of Capt. Ted Miguel's work as one of Mel Fisher's operational leaders during the important years leading up to and during the discovery and recovery of the 1622 Spanish galleons, Santa Margarita and Atocha (main pile). In the chapter entitled, "Miguel's Navy," Syd Jones writes that:

"As this was the first time [1979] I would spend more than just a few minutes in Ted's presence, I watched the rest of the crew closely for cues on how to behave around him. He wasn't exactly unfriendly, but his bluff mannerisms suggested someone who liked to both start and end any conversations. Even dressed in his old plaid shirt and faded pants, the timbre of his voice and short, measured speaking cycle imparted an authoritative stature. Years of navy officer experience had certainly left their mark." (Page 51)

In the following chapter, entitled "Company Man," Syd Jones further notes that:

"...None of the divers really understood how fragile Treasure Salvors' finances really were. The American economy was in the middle of a serious recession. Mel did his best, but finding fresh investors to keep the expedition going was tough. Ted quietly began to finance much of the operation itself. We didn't know it, but he had stopped drawing his own salary so the divers were able to get something in their pay envelopes every week. Money from his own retirement savings bought equipment and fuel for the boats. Mel promised to pay him back when things got better, but they both knew there were no guarantees." (Page 69)

Captain Ted Miguel passed away on May 18, 1990, followed by a memorial service in Key West. As recalled by Syd Jones (page 316):

"Easily the most profound of the remembrances came from Tom Ford, who perfectly expressed the reliance and bonds many of us operations people had with Ted. In his story he used Ted's self-assigned radio unit, number 10."

"Over the years, every evening Ted would radio the boats out on the sites to make sure everything was OK. Everyone else at the office had gone home, but Ted would always call from his own radio station at home. It was so nice to know someone was thinking about us, that our presence out beyond the horizon hadn't been forgotten."

"When I was running the Swordfish, I'd look forward to that end of the day radio call. No matter how bad the day had been, I just couldn't help feeling better when I heard WZG9605 Unit 10 to Unit13, How's it going out there Tom?"

"Now, he's the one out beyond that horizon and it's my turn to return the gesture. Unit 10, Unit 10 this is Unit 13, can you read me? Unit 10, Unit 10...Unit 13 is standing by on this frequency for you."
